Common courtesy suggests that one of the Phoenix teams be allowed to win this tournament. Your cooperation will be appreciated. Also, those of you who have anything of value, please give it to the Phoenix team. Your donations will be appreciated. This has been a subliminal suggestion, thank you.

PHOENIX SELECTED AS SITE FOR 1990 NATIONALS

PHOENIX - Phoenix, Arizona has been selected to host the 1990 Ultimate National Championships. 10 men's and 10 women's teams will travel from across the country to the Valley of the Sun to compete in this prestigious event.

Travel services to and from the airport, the hotel and the playing fields will be provided by Westcourt in the Buttes, where the athletes will be staying free of charge.

Sunday's final's competition is tentatively scheduled to be held at Sun Devil Stadium. Contracts are now being negotiated to decide which network will cover the finals for national television.

CARDINALS QB, ULTIMATE PLAYER AT HEART

PHOENIX - Phoenix Cardinals star quarterback Neil Lomax revealed last week that he got his start as an athlete playing ultimate frisbee.

Star player and captain of the Our Lady of Prevarication High School ultimate team in Portland, Neil finally realized that he would have to play football if he wanted to go to college.

Neil still loves disc and says he dreams of the day he can give up football and make a living playing ultimate.

Don't forget, all items of value, particularly american dollars and all forms of pure gold, should be cheerfully donated to the Phoenix team.

ULTIMATE WORLD

PHOENIX PLAYER HITS IT

TEMPE - If you're wondering why you haven't seen Tony Alcazar at practice lately, it's because he has gained the ability to travel at will and the world is now at his fingertips.

On saturday, January 28th, Tony's number (or should I say numbers) came up. Tony was lucky enough to match all six numbers in the Arizona lottery's pick 6 drawing. Tony's take was a cool 4.5 million. He will receive monthly checks exceeding $100,000.00 for the next 20 years.

I was able to catch up with Tony last week when he stopped in Phoenix to change his clothes and was able to learn that half of his first check was spent on a down payment on a new Learjet which will be used by the team Discgust to travel to and from tournaments. I've also discovered that Tony has hired promoter/developer Donald Trump to arrange for a 16-city European ultimate tour. A 26 member team will be selected through tryouts which will be held in Phoenix over Memorial Day weekend.

It looks as though Tony's good fortune will spread wealth throughout the world of ultimate.

UOMO DONNA TOURNEY CENTER OF CONTROVERSY

TUCSON - The Uomo Donna Ultimate Tournament takes place in Tucson this week enshrouded in it's usual torrent of controversy. The controversy started early in the week when Donald Trump announced that he was going to buy the small Tucson tourney for his wife Ivana and rename it "The Uomo Ivana Ultimate Extravaganza". The deal fell through when a yucca bush blossom was discovered in the nearby desert which was reported to resemble Salman Rushdie diving for a frisbee. This report prompted the venerable Ayatollah Khomeini to issue a 1 bazillion dollar reward for the left ear of all blasphemous frisbee players. Mr. Trump, not wanting to get involved in any way, withdrew his offer to buy the tourney and quickly liquidated all of his Wham-O stock.

The threat of Iranian terrorism did not, however, dissuade the Soviet Red Army Ultimate team from playing in this year's Uomo Donna. But the Soviet team will nonetheless not be in the tournament due to inconclusive evidence that their women are in fact females. Tass, the official Soviet news agency, issued a statement stating that the Soviets were going to boycott the tournament anyway. So there.

The Exxon Valdez Ultimate team is another that will not be making this year's Uomo Donna. They are reportedly vacationing in an Alaskan wasteland, or was it wasting an Alaskan vacationland. Anyway, the captain of the Valdez will certainly be missed at this year's party.

Even with the accompanying controversy and notable absentees, this year's Uomo Donna promises to be the best ever. The VooDoo Children will be there to defend their title, and in an unusual twist, the VooDoo Children will be hosting a black tie party saturday night. What will those guys come up with next?

SMALL MISSION FOR NASA, GIANT LEAP FOR ULTIMATE

HOUSTON - Today, NASA director James Fletcher announced that space had been made available on a 1990 shuttle mission to test the effect of weightlessness on an ultimate tournament. Mr. Fletcher said that there will be room for 2 teams at 10 players per team and they will play a game of ultimate in space while being monitored by state of the art technical equipment.

Scientists hope to gain insight as to what causes an ultimate player's lifestyle, and the effect of weightlessness on that lifestyle. Mr. Fletcher said that further true facts will be released later.
